Salvation Army On Streets for Christmas Fund

Miniature houses gaily decorated with holiday colors and greetings replaced the traditional army kettles on Marion streets today as the Salvation Army's reminder that there are homes in the city without means to provide a Christmas dinner

The army doesn't like to feel that there will be any one in Marion without something to make Christmas real to them and just how happy the day is going to be depends on how many contributions are poured down the chimneys of the Christmas dinner houses and are received in the appeal which is being made by mail and through The Star Captain Rothwell Stickley said in discussing the project today

Already queries are being received at the army office regarding the Christmas activities Christmas baskets will be distributed to homes where funds are lacking to provide a holiday dinner and there is a large list of people both young and old waiting for them, he explained

In addition to the Christmas houses which will be placed on the streets again next Wednesday, to remain until Christmas Eve, Captain Stickley has placed a number of small, red counter boxes in the stores and various business places, into which contributions may be placed.

Every method possible will be made to meet the wants of the needy, at this particular time, the captain said.

A Toy for Every Child Aim of Committee Here

Group Lays Plans for Annual Christmas Party for Marion's Less Fortunate Youngsters

Heading civic holiday events again this year is the fourth annual children's community Christmas party to be held as formerly at the Palace theater Christmas morning

Plans were launched with a flying start when the community party committee composed of representatives of civic patriotic fraternal and other organization city officials the Salvation Army club women and individuals met last night at the Central fire station Gene Hill chairman of the committee presided

Before taking up the plans for the community party the committee elected the following officers Mr Hill chairman George J Lehner vice chairman Mrs L M Eikenbary secretary and Sherman Haldeman treasurer

That the children's party has come to be a looked-forward to event by the adults as well as the children was evident in the representative turnout of the committee's personnel and the enthusiasm shown in outlining plans Reports showed that there have been a number of inquiries from organizations and citizens and several donations already have been received T J McFarland chairman of the finance committee reported a contribution from a business man and Mr Hill announced that he had been notified that a check would be forthcoming from an organization

Toys and Money Needed

Toys and money are what we are asking from Marion men women boys and girls to make hundreds of less fortunate happy on this day of days Mr Hill said The committees will do the work and see that no one is overlooked, he said

The goal this year is $600 and 700 dolls, plus toys galore to insure the fulfilment of a "Merry Christmas" to the party guests who will be children under 10 years of age

Marks Orders Removal of Gambling Equipment

Chief Tells Patrolmen To Spread "Fair Warning" Throughout Uptown Area, Mayor Gets New Information on Conditions.

Instructions for policemen to issue orders to business places throughout the city for removal of all gambling devices were issued yesterday by Police Chief William E Marks

Taken as the first step toward execution of an order of Mayor Smith to halt gambling activities in the city the chief's order was described this morning as fair warning" to all persons connected with gambling operations

We're ordering all gambling equipment out at once the chief said adding that owners of business places would take their own chances if they permitted future operation of gambling devices

Pet gambling paraphernalia was reported disappearing from a number of business places following the issuance of the order

Chief Marks said policemen probably will complete the task of notifying business places today adding he understands some equipment already has been removed

Mayor Gets More Information

Other developments were comments of Mayor Smith that yesterday's announcement of the campaign against gambling has brought new information to him from various sources regarding gambling and a conference of the mayor Service Director John A Ruth and Chief Marks this morning

Chief Marks who is to work with Service Director Ruth in charting the policies to be followed in the drive against gambling said his morning his general cleanup notice to members of the department probably will be followed by prosecution of any cases in which the city feels it might obtain a conviction

He said yesterday's orders to his men on gambling does not represent any change in policy pointing out the men always have had instructions to be on the alert for gambling but that especial attention of department members was called to all forms of gambling by the order Operation of machines of a gambling nature apparently gained headway during the summer months when the department was undermanned by the city's economy furloughs of nine policemen he said

Up to Owner

Regarding the types of equipment to be affected by the cleanup order Chief Marks said the department is making no attempt to [illegible]

HULL OUTLINES PEACE SCHEME

Urges Western Hemisphere To Act So as To Set Example for Rest of World

HAS EIGHT-POINT PROGRAM

Includes Educational Work Frequent Parleys and Cementing of Present Pacts

By The Associated Press

BUENOS AIRES Dec 5—Secretary Hull summoned the 21 American nations today to a cooperative effort to help stave off war abroad as well as to preserve peace at home

Presenting to the Inter-American peace conference an eight-point program for a comprehensive antiwar structure, the head of the United States delegation pleaded for the creation of an armory of peace in the interest of the whole world

I strongly entertain the hope he said that a united group of American nations may take common action at this conference further to assure peace among themselves and define their attitude toward war and that this action may not only demonstrate the happy position of the new world but though designed primarily for our own benefit embody policies of world application and correspond to the views and interests of nations outside this hemisphere

Joint Action Needed

Hull stressed the necessity of joint action by the American governments to infuse the will to peace not only in their own peoples but by example in the world at large To this end he said frequent consultation among their officials is necessary as well as free intercourse among their peoples

Hull offered the following principles as guides for the conference's labors with the assertion that what we do contemplates no conflict with sincere (peace) efforts the world over

1—Adoption of broad vigorous educational programs by each nation to organize public opinion against war concurrently with the maintenance of national policies best calculated to preserve peace

2—Frequent conference between representatives of the nations and intercourse between their peoples as indispensable in their influence for peace and well being understanding friendship and trust

3—Completion of ratification by all the American nations of the five peace agreements already in existence

4—Pursuit of a common neutrality policy by all the American nations in time of conflict abroad on the principle that 'neutrality is an achievement to be attained more readily if undertaken jointly"

5—Adoption of an America-wide

PLAN SURVEY OF WPA LISTS

Will Be Part of District-Wide Movement To Reinterview Workers.

SEEK OUT INELIGIBLES

Officials Believe Many Now on Rolls Should Be Self-Supporting

Plans for reinterviewing all WPA workers in District No [illegible] which includes Marion county will be laid at Mansfield Monday at a meeting of relief directors of all counties in the district John Abel Marion county relief director said today The chief purpose of the proposed interview is to weed out persons who are not actually in need of aid he said and return to [illegible] on WPA rolls for families which are now receiving direct local relief

Mr Abel was notified of the meeting this morning by a letter from S D Downing of Sandusky district WPA director The conference will begin at 1 30 p m

There are at present approximately 800 WPA workers including women in Marion county the bulk of them in Marion city Mr Abel said There is no way of determining at present before the reinterviewing how many of these persons do not need the government work he said

Believe Many Ineligible

Mr Abel and Mr Downing believe however there is a considerable number in all counties of the district Many persons now either certified for WPA work or actually working on projects belong to families in which financial conditions have improved since the person was assigned or certified Mr Abel said The financial improvement might have come about through the success of other members of the same family obtaining private employment or other private income he said

He also pointed to instances where women had been given WPA employment during the illness of a husband or supporting son Mr Abel believes that in many such cases the sick member of the family has since recovered and is either capable of working or actually has private employment

Mr Downing in his letter to Mr Abel said the assignment or certification of such families should be cancelled to make it possible to certify and assign WPA jobs to persons now on direct relief and in actual need

Costs To Go Up

Direct relief costs are expected to increase substantially this winter with fuel food, shelter and clothing requirements rising. Mr Abel said The only method of reducing the increased load is to transfer families from direct relief to WPA rolls and this cannot be accomplished unless the more fortunate persons now on WPA rolls are taken off, Mr. Abel said

The method of reinterviewing will be mapped out at the Mansfield conference and will probably

FACES FORMIDABLE FOES

Publisher Rothermere Urges Careful Decision, Calling Haste Indecent

By The Associated Press

LONDON Dec 5 King Edward of England told his distressed but calm people today he is determined to marry Wallis Simpson—and then formally cancelled all his official engagements for the present

His supporters seized joyfully on those last three words contained in a Buckingham palace announcement They thought it meant he merely wanted to have his hands free to deal with the present constitutional crisis—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's ultimatum that he and Mrs Simpson must not wed

The king it was learned from a high source has not decided to abdicate—he has decided nothing except that he will marry his American friend

Much to Overcome

But the cards still were stacked high against him

Late today in what was interpreted as a flat warning to the government and a powerful swing to the side of the sovereign Lord Rothermere said in the Evening News

You cannot smuggle the greatest living Englishman off the throne of England during the week end

The publisher urged time for the solution of the crisis

Haste is indecent he proclaimed

At Fort Belvedere the king was described as cheerful and in the best of health by a friend who talked to him shortly before 4 p m

(Reports from Vienne France said Mrs Simpson, who hastened from England Thursday night had telephoned Buckingham palace Presumably the palace switchboard connected the call with Belvedere).

Tour Called Off

His schedule for next week now presumably wiped out had included a tour of the potteries of Staffordshire and Birmingham an inspection of the Scots Guards at the Tower of London and opening of the peoples palace at Mile End

While the king remained in the country the Archbishop of Westminster Dr Arthur Hinsley, issued a statement asking for special prayer for the king by all Catholics tomorrow

He granted permission for exposition of the blessed sacrament for this intention

Anglican prayers for the monarch already have been invoked by the Archbishop of Canterbury

The highest sources asserted the king had not yielded to the government's ultimatum that he renounce—formally and unconditionally—the American woman who is the choice of his heart

The most authoritative sources declared this information was conveyed to the cabinet today during a gloomy 40 minute session at Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's home

Weary Cabinet Departs

The ministers—weary over the romantic, empire-shaking crisis—left the official residence in a drizzling rain just 40 minutes after they first had entered.

They will convene to discuss the tense situation again at 10 30 a. m., Monday (5 30 a. m. Marion time)

During the interval, they had been instructed to "stand by" and remain in or near London.

The government has been promised the king's final word within 48 hours it was understood

Twenty ministers attended the session of the cabinet. As some were leaving the Baldwin residence automobiles bearing banners urging the king not to surrender appeared in nearby streets.

'Confound the clerics" said one of the signs on the cars. "A free country and a free king" declared another.

The popular movement, which reached its climax in widespread demonstrations in the king's favor throughout London, was reported spreading even among Conservative members of parliament.

At noon the whole situation shaped up like this

1. Official opposition to the king

CABINET FEARS AMBITIOUS KING

Conservatives Believe He May Seek New Prerogatives as Result of Popularity

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK Dec 5—Behind the crisis revolving about King Edward's determination to marry Mrs Wallis Simpson against the advice of his ministers there is another element—a fear that he may be reaching for prerogatives outside his rights as a constitutional monarch which has not in the least strengthened his position with the government

With Edward's accession to the throne less than a year ago there emerged not just another king but a new and strong leader. He smashed traditions left and right and gave every indication he intended to take a prominent hand in affairs

Welcomed Initiative

His ministers welcomed his progressive attitude and encouraged it. They needed a leader in these perilous times when monarchies are toppling and Edward was credited with being the most popular and best equipped king ever to mount the throne

Recently however his progressiveness has come so close to encroaching on constitutionally forbidden ground that his prime minister and cabinet have been uneasy

Only the other day during his visit to the poverty stricken Welsh coal fields he made a public statement about action intended to alleviate the situation. He was not supposed to make any such pronouncement without the advice of his ministers and it happened that he intruded on a matter already in hand. The government was much embarrassed and not a little resentful but had to scrap its own ideas of a solution and follow his lead

LUM AND ABNER BAND ON PALACE STAGE

Pine Ridge Musicians Making Appearances at Theater Today and Saturday.

The Pine Ridge Silver Cornet band came to Marion today and this afternoon made the first two of eight appearances on the Palace stage during its engagement today and Saturday.

Programs on which the band will appear will start at 6.45 and 9.30 tonight and 1, 4, 6.15 and 9.35 Saturday. The Saturday matinee at 1 will be especially for children.

In addition to using band instruments, the Lum and Abner sponsored band makes music on a weird variety of implements. In one of the numbers, kitchen churns, scythes, sweet potatoes, saws and several other odd music producers are used.

Dick Huddleston who appears in person with the band in real life is an Arkansas store keeper. His part on the Lum and Abner broadcast is actually taken by Abner, who also impersonates Squire Skimp.

Ezra Buzzington, director of the band, is one of the best known showmen in the middle west. As director of his own band Buzzington has appeared during the last several years before theater and fair audiences over the country. In real life he is Mark Schafer, and lives on a large farm near Winchester, Ind.

A romantic comedy, "The Luckiest Girl in the World," is the screen entertainment on the two-day bill. Featured in the picture are Jane Wyatt, Louis Hayward, Nat Pendleton, Eugene Pallette and Catharine Doucet.

During recent floods in Brazil one-fourth of the city of Porto Alegre was submerged, causing vast damage to property.

HOT FURNACE IS BLAMED FOR KENTON HOTEL FIRE

Owners Seek Settlement With Insurance Company and Plan To Rebuild Structure.

Special to The Star

KENTON, O., Dec. 4—With origin of the blaze that gutted the 65-room St. Nicholas hotel here Thursday and sent 25 occupants fleeing in various states of disrobe tentatively announced as due to an overheated furnace, plans went forward today for a settlement with insurance companies and subsequent rebuilding.

R. B. Merriman of Kenton and Mrs. Lewis M. Gauger of Sullivan, Ind., brother and sister who own the smoke-blackened three-story brick structure, said the hostelry would be rebuilt at an estimated cost of $30,000. Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Rigney, who have managed the hotel for 18 years, were undecided as to what they will do in the immediate future. They lost all their furnishings, equipment of the modern bar and grill, and cigar store stock at a loss of some $10,000, partially covered by insurance. In addition to the above losses 23 roomers in the building lost personal property valued at hundreds of dollars.

Immediate warning of the fire by Night Clerk Allen Stewart, Manager P. J. Rigney and Bernie Bash, director of the hotel orchestra, was credited for the escape of all occupants, including eight on the third floor, without injury or burns.

Fire Chief Asa T. Columber said he had no trouble with hotel occupants, 15 of whom were removed to safety by way of windows and fire ladders; nor with bystanders. Volunteers aided.

ELECTIONS BOARD WINS MORROW COUNTY FIGHT

Common Pleas Judge Sustains Demurrer to Petition Aimed at Invalidating Vote Results

Special to The Star

MT GILEAD Dec 5 — Judge P H Wieland on Friday issued an opinion sustaining a demurrer to the petition filed in the Morrow county common pleas court against the Morrow county board of elections to declare the election void

The suit was filed by T A Phillips Gilead township justice of the peace as a taxpayer The contention was that the election was invalid because the state legislature had failed to make provision to replace election laws allegedly repealed by the adoption of the home rule amendment in 1933

Six offices would have been affected as they were named specifically in the suit They are prosecuting attorney recorder sheriff coroner treasurer and clerk of courts

Judge Wieland's decision sustaining the demurrer stated only that the facts alleged in the petition do not constitute a cause of action against the defendant The defendant is the county election board only and thus the ruling of the judge does not carry any opinion on the merits of the case

The plaintiff is expected to carry it to a higher court It is possible the secretary of state may be named a defendant in a similar action to determine the merits of the case

An appeal bond of $100 was set by the court and the attorney for the plaintiff noted exceptions to the ruling in order to leave the way open to appeal the demurrer ruling to the fifth district court of appeals If this is done immediately the case may be brought before the appellate court on Tuesday Dec 8 when it will be in session here for the December term

PARALYSIS KEEPS POPE PIUS IN BED

was unable to get out of bed Doctor Milani was called and made an immediate examination

The result persons close to the Vatican declared was determination the Holy Father had been stricken with paralysis which it was still is feared to be progressive

Inflamed Heart

The paralysis was attributed by the attending physicians to inflammation of the heart

Some recalled that both the Pontiff's mother and elder brother Fermo were stricken in the same way

Fermo spent the last year of his life in an arm chair which some believed may be the case with the Pope

This morning the Pope was to have attended the closing ceremony of the retreat which he began last Sunday night

When it was found he could not rise six cardinals and a group of bishops and prelates who had gathered for the ceremony went to his bedroom and held the service there

The Jesuit preacher Father Magni who was to have read the last sermon of the retreat in the Sistine chapel read it instead standing beside the Pope's bed

The pontiff listened intently prelates said apparently in possession of all his mental faculties

Cardinal Reads Message

Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli papal secretary of state read a message signed by the Pope himself

In the message the pontiff called attention to the importance of the spiritual exercises just concluded and excused himself for not attending owing to a local disturbance

News of the Pope's illness spread quickly throughout the Vatican causing consternation in all quarters

It was announced at noon that all audiences had been canceled The Pope was to have received hundreds of persons mostly newly married couples who had been sent invitations

Some prelates expressed the theory the Pope was stricken as a consequence of the thoroughness with which he had conducted this year's spiritual retreat

Others thought it might be due to the sudden change from his ordinary strenuous work to complete repose in meditation and prayer

Prayers will be offered in Rome churches tomorrow for the Holy Father's health

verbal notices to business places to decide what type of machines are gambling devices We're simply ordering gambling equipment removed he said If the proprietor wants to leave some type of machine in operation on the grounds it's a legal device it's up to him to take the consequences if he is prosecuted later

Policemen are instructed he said to make a list of all types of devices in use that might possibly fall under the classification of gambling devices and to turn in these lists soon

When asked if the men had been instructed specifically about the big time gambling rooms mentioned in yesterday's conference in the mayor's office Chief Marks said the order he has issued is broad enough to cover all phases of gambling

In the conference yesterday at which Mayor Smith called upon the chief for a citywide cleanup particular emphasis was laid on petty gambling equipment that children are reported to have played and big time gambling rooms where stakes are reported to have run into large figures

KING DETERMINED TO MARRY WALLY

is of the most formidable character Official and party headquarters say opinion is hardening in conservative ranks that the sovereign will have to choose abdication as an escape from his present dilemma

2 British opinion as reflected by the press and on the streets supports and sympathizes with the king on the personal problem he faces

Parliament Backs Baldwin

3 Parliament undoubtedly is lined up strongly behind Baldwin on the constitutional aspects of the fight Whether the constitutional problems involved in the possibility of the king's marriage to Mrs Simpson are as serious as Baldwin interpreted them may not be known until the whole issue is decided

Winston Churchill is actively supporting the king's position but few members of parliament believe he could command the necessary support in commons or from the electorate in the general election that inevitably would follow his selection as premier should Baldwin quit Thus Baldwin as leader of the Conservative party ultimately would control the situation and have the king at his mercy

4 Mrs Simpson is in France seeking a place of seclusion The part she will play in future acts of the empire's drama was not clear But one thing was plain today—the king still intends to marry her

No Sign of King

There was no sign during the morning of the king either at Buckingham palace at Marlborough house or at St James palace and it became doubtful that he even had occupied his car when it left Belvedere at 10 a m

It never is possible to tell for sure whether the king is in the car for the rear windows are painted black

The Duke and Duchess of York and their children left their home at Piccadilly for the usual week end at their estate at Windsor Great park an indication to some that tension had relaxed

A group of conservative members from the commons met in the smoking room yesterday It was learned after the historic meeting in which the prime minister announced the cabinet's refusal to sponsor legislation enabling the king to marry Mrs Simpson

Send Monarch Letters

The dissenting group decided to send personal letters to the monarch assuring him of their support in any action he might think necessary in defense of his constitutional rights

Demonstrators shouted their allegiance to the British ruler as a wave of sentiment in favor of the king swept London

The cabinet meeting was unexpectedly brief leading to belief the prime minister had received no definite answer from the king

Sir John Simon home secretary known as the strongest legal mind in the cabinet conferred with Baldwin for an hour before the session

"God save the king! God save the queen" shouted jostling crowds outside Buckingham palace "Flog Baldwin! Down with the bishops"

Throughout the night the paraders meandered through the avenues and alleys their cheers always for their king

Oppose Quick Decision

The ruler's friends anxious for Edward's personal happiness but at the same time hopeful for the empire urged him not to make up his mind in a hurry

The cabinet's opposition to the former Baltimore debutante found little sympathy in the minds of parading Londoners

They cheered the king they shouted praise for the American woman already named the new queen in the popular demonstrations and they applauded Queen Bess the 11 year-old Princess Elizabeth next in line of succession after her father the Duke of York

The Archbishop of Canterbury aligned with the Church of England on the government's side appealed for nation-wide prayers Sunday that God may rule over the decisions of the king and of his government for the lasting good of the realm and empire

or one of two ways by calling in all WPA workers to the relief office and questioning them concerning their incomes and financial status or by interviewing the families in the homes The latter method would entail considerable expenditure of funds which relief officials might not be able to gather together Mr Abel pointed out

Requirements To Tighten

Standards of living below which a person must be before he or she is given relief or WPA work will probably be made still lower Mr Abel said Such a tightening of the requirements is expected to bring about a substantial reduction in both direct relief and WPA rolls this winter Mr Abel said

An exact statement of the present requirements which a family must meet to be eligible for relief or WPA work would be impossible to make briefly Mr Abel said since conditions vary in individual cases He cited as an example however of a family which is not eligible for relief a family of five with an income of $75 a month is considered financially able to care for itself

METHODIST GROUP MAPS CHRISTIAN WORK PROGRAM

E Colles of Hicksville and Carl Smith of Zanesville

Leaders of the discussion groups also serving this afternoon are Miss Margaret Huffman of Cincinnati Mrs Stemen Miss Naomi Rawn of Reynoldsburg Miss Roberta Chapman of Columbus Robert Watkins of Dayton Justin Harman of Cedarville William Detrick of Bellefontaine and Mr Heckel Cecil Smith of Zanesville took Miss Chapman's place this morning

The morning session opened with a half hour silent worship service for which Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence Epworth organist played soft music

An informative business session in which plans of the council were presented to the congress to lead the discussion groups in forming opinions was presided over by Mr Bauer

Last night's session was opened by Mr Bauer who conducted a worship service of music hymns prayer scripture and fitting poems Miss Lena Dale Mulvaine of La Rue was at the piano Dr W P Castoe superintendent of the Lima district of which Epworth church is a part welcomed the visitors on behalf of the district and urged the congress to feel keenly and think straight about the problems of youth and the church

In his opening talk Mr Bauer said that one of the outstanding things about Christian youth is [illegible] new world [illegible] we can have a part in [illegible] We can do it as a mass but we have to break down into smaller groups to carry on an adequate program We are a part of the great program—a program of Christian youth in action We as Methodist young people have a definite part to play in this program

Rev Norris Speaks

Our work has its beginning in a dream and its end in the fulfillment of that dream Rev Norris said in his keynote address last night into which he poured the fervor of his conviction of the potential power of a united youth people in making a Christian world

It has its beginning he continued with a conviction with a great faith We believe something and has its ending in a real world a world in which there shall be no war a world in which there will be no more poverty a world that has a real understanding and belief that all men are brothers of one Father God

He pictured the horrors of war spoke of the racial prejudice which still prevails inside the church on the part of Christian people so-called and viewed a day in which every man shall be offered a job and a chance to work

But in between the dream and its fulfillment in between the conviction and the new world something must take place he said

We need to carry our convictions into this meeting I hope that this congress will begin with a conviction and will go back home with a definite program of action which we mean to do something about in every one of our local churches and communities We are called together not especially to draw convictions but to draw a program of action

Ultimate Goal

The ultimate goal of a Christian world is a task that will take all our heroism courage personality and intelligence Rev Norris told his audience adding not to be worked at objectively but in dead earnestness to take these dreams and convictions and be ready to die in the cause

It is not an easy yoke he said earnestly He deplored the present lack of passionate feeling for the task of building a Christian world by a people who hold automobiles jobs and popularity more important

He spoke of the opportunity that will be given the young people Sunday to dedicate themselves to the Christian program at the altar of God in Epworth church

There are three ways of handling life he told the group to say It's pretty tough and grow cynical pessimistic and sour and try to find a way out by ending their own lives to say it's tough and the other fellow's out to get all he can get and I'm going out to get all I can as easily as I can or to say It's a tough world but I am not responsible for the evil pain distress and suffering but in the name of Jesus I am going to follow Him"

WALLY CALLS KING FROM FRENCH CAFE

passed through the door through the cellars and up the backstairs of the restaurant to the upper floor dining room

A husky Briton barred the rear entrance leading to the upper floor cafe while [illegible] blocked the main door

The chauffeur then drove the car around to a side entrance of the restaurant where he partook of a hot plate sent out from the kitchens

Finally at 2 25 p m the Simpson party left in the direction of the Riviera

Preceded by a detective the king's American friend emerged from the backstairs route leading through the wine cellar rushed across the sidewalk and entered the car

It was driven southward at a terrific speed

Madame Pointe wife of the restaurant proprietor said Mrs Simpson had told her she was very tired and very nervous

Immediately on her arrival she was taken to the proprietor's apartment above the main restaurant to make her toilette thence to the private dining room

There with little appetite she had luncheon with her escorts

But said Mme Pointe she appeared oh so much more composed after she had telephoned the palace in London

The Rogers residence at Cannes was surrounded by plainclothesmen and Mrs Rogers a frequent member of parties given by Mrs Simpson and King Edward was living elsewhere in the city She refused to say whether the hilltop home was being prepared for Mrs Simpson

Rogers met the train on which the baggage arrived in Cannes He was accompanied by a detective from Scotland Yard

I don't know anything about Mrs Simpson Rogers said

Keep Christ in Christmas

A SERMONETTE

By REV J W HEININGER
Pastor, the Calvary Evangelical Church

Text —St. Luke 2 18 19—And all that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds. But Mary kept all these things and pondered them in her heart.

TWO WORDS in this selection from the Christmas story let us in to the secret of an observance of Christmas that will keep the Christ in it. Wondered and pondered.

The wonder and awe of the shepherds and that which led Mary to ponder these things in her heart were not a foolish surprise, not fear. This wonder was and is admiring amazement, reverence or emotion inspired by the evident action of something sublime. A sense of sacredness possessed them. There was an awareness of something beyond, above mere things, impelling them to worship and to follow on until the presence announced to the shepherds was found—even as the wise men later followed the star until they came to where the Christ child lay.

Too many of us approach Christmas without this wonder or awe—consequently the heavens tell us nothing about the presence and we discover no star that leads us into places where we find the Christ of God. And when Christmas is over we are left without a thing to ponder in our hearts. We are left just cold, glad that the fuss is out of the way for another year!

Wondering and pondering will keep Christ in our Christmas because they will lead us to make such place as an expression of an observance that will be first of all a festival of faith, and not a mere Saturnalia, a feast of mirth and fun with trees and gifts of food and drink.

As Evelyn Underhill said, We are drifting toward a religion which consciously or unconsciously keeps its eye on humanity rather than on Deity, which lays a stress on service and hardly any stress on awe, and that is a type of religion that does not wear well. It does little for the soul in those awful moments when the pain and the mystery of life are most deeply felt. It turns its back on the most profound gifts made by Christianity to the human race.

Eyes to see, hearts to feel, lives to yield themselves to and to worship the new born King, these find their springs in the wonder of the nativity and keep Christ in Christmas.

CHURCH PLANS TUESDAY RITES

Feast of the Immaculate Conception Will Be Observed at St Mary's.

The Feast of the Immaculate Conception will be celebrated Tuesday at St Mary Catholic church with four masses in the morning, devotions and reception of girls in the Children of Mary sodality at 3 p m.

Masses will be sung at 5, 6 30, 8 and 9 30. High mass will be solemnized at 8 with music by the high school choir.

Twenty-four new members will be enrolled in the sodality at the afternoon service. The organization is one of the most active at St Mary school, participating in religious, charitable and social affairs.

The sodality is divided into a senior division for girls of the tenth through the twelfth grades and a junior division for girls of the seventh, eighth and ninth grades.

Senior division officers are Theresa Tobin, prefect; Fanny Piacentino, vice prefect; Virginia Hurley, secretary; Edith May Fate, treasurer. Officers of the junior division are Patricia Lawler, prefect; Evangeline Masters, vice prefect; Miriam Luech, secretary; Pauline Gunder, treasurer.

Catholic authority gives the following on the Immaculate Conception: The doctrine that Our Lady in the first instant of her conception was by a singular grace and privilege of Almighty God in view of the merits of Jesus Christ, the Saviour of the human race, preserved exempt from all stain of original sin. It must be noticed that contrary to a common error this doctrine has nothing to do with the virgin birth of Christ, nor does it involve a virgin birth of Mary. She was physically conceived and born in the ordinary way. But her soul at the first moment of its creation and infusion into her body was clothed in sanctifying grace, which to every other child of Adam is only given in the first instance after birth and since Christ at Baptism, the stain of original sin was not removed but excluded from her soul.

CHURCH TO VOTE ON NEW PASTOR

Members of the Central Christian church will vote Sunday on a candidate selected Monday night by the pulpit committee to be successor to Rev James O Dold, who is now in Terre Haute, Ind.

Church officers have urged every member to be present at the 10 30 a m service, at which the vote will be taken.

Action has been taken by the pulpit committee on one of the two candidates for the pulpit, Rev Harry L Bell of Hyden, Ky, and Rev Leo M Moore of Leipsic, O.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Pellagra

TOO FEW of us realize that the skin is one of the most important structures of the body. To neglect to care for it is all too common a practice. To resort to self-medication for its disorders is almost as bad.

Without medical advice it is unwise to apply any ointment, salve or lotion to the skin with a view to controlling inflammation of that structure. Bear in mind that many of these disorders are serious in their nature. It is best to seek wise attention because improper treatment means delay in the cure and perhaps an attack upon the general health.

Let me tell you about an annoying disorder of the skin called pellagra. It is only until within recent years that we have known much about it. As a result of investigations made by the United States public health service, the underlying cause was found.

This is in reality a vitamin-deficiency disease. By this is meant that if the diet is lacking in foods containing certain substances, particularly vitamin G, pellagra will occur.

In the studies made it was found that persons who lived on a diet of corn meal, white wheat flour, white rice, dry beans, salt pork, sorghum or cane molasses suffered from the disease. Further, it was shown that when certain foods known to be rich in vitamin G are used in abundance, pellagra can be prevented. By giving these foods the disease was cured. Lean meat, eggs, milk, wheat germ, tomatoes and a variety of vegetables and fruits are foods rich in the preventive vitamin.

If you have ever seen a victim of pellagra you will agree that the skin is unpleasant looking, to say the least. There is a reddish discoloration of the face, neck and hands. The skin peels, shedding in large quantities.

In addition to the skin symptoms the victim suffers from certain digestive and nervous disturbances. There may be stupor and convulsions. In former years, when little was known about the disease, the victims of pellagra were thought to be suffering from melancholia, hallucinations and deep brain disturbances.

It is gratifying to know that with proper selection of foods no one need fear pellagra. It is best to include in the daily diet an abundance of fresh fruits, vegetables, cream, butter, eggs and milk.

Madge Hears News Concerning Dead Man in Shack

MRS. TICER'S voice lowered itself to a whisper as she said: But that isn't the worst of it. There was a horror in her eyes which, as I waited for her to explain her meaning, was infecting me. I felt a curious reluctance to put any question to her which should hasten the explanation.

There's a dead man in the woods up near the shack, she whispered, sending an involuntary fearful glance in the general direction of the hill where the girls' watchers of the farmhouse had camped.

What! I exclaimed. Then I wasted no more time on talk.

Wait here, I said as I rushed toward the door. I'll be back in a minute with the others. The men must hear your story at once. We haven't a second to waste.

She made no protest, and I hurried down the hall to the dining room, bursting in upon the group just as Katie was serving a second round of coffee.

Bring your coffee to the study, I said. You must hear Mrs. Ticer's story. She says the men [illegible] two hours ago and that there's a dead man in the woods up near the shack.

Are you crazy, Margaret? my mother-in-law asked, to tell all this before——? Her head moved disdainfully toward Katie.

I had no opportunity to tell her that I had purposely included my housekeeper among my listeners, even if I had wished to give her that irritating information.

Harry Underwood, with an expressive imprecation coupled with the exclamation Grimby! had leaped from his chair and rushed toward the dining room door. As he went through it Lillian voiced a question.

There's no use of the rest of us trailing along, is there, Allen? We'd probably scare Mr. Ticer out of a year's growth.

There was the deference in her voice which she would have used to my father, but which I knew she never would have given to Allen Drake had he not stood in the place of the chief.

Mr. Drake smiled at her.

Madge Is Irked

Perpendicular or literal? he drawled, and I put down another black mark against him. I knew that his experience tended to make him callous to death in someone whom he did not know, but I did not like this jesting mood in the face of such news as Mrs. Ticer had brought.

Bosh! Lillian retorted unsmilingly. She was plainly in a funk when she was talking to Katie, and from long experience I know that Mrs. Ticer is usually a calm, possessed person, and that only something terrifying could have so upset her. Harry, of course, has to see her. He evidently fears something has happened to Grimby—and Madge ought to go back so that Mrs. Ticer can weep on her shoulder if she so desires.

You, of course, as representative of the chief, will decide your own course, but for the life of me I cannot see where the rest of us come in as ringside seaters.

Nor do I, Mr. Drake assented promptly, and I count myself in that category. I am too comfortable to move, and I think the matter of Mrs. Ticer's interrogation can be safely left to old Harry and—my daughter.

His smile flickered again in my direction, and I saw that his impish mood was once more in the ascendency. He had tried conscientiously, I admitted to myself, to impress Dicky with the innocuous character of the filial caresses with which Lillian had insisted that my role be invested, but that task accomplished—with success or not I had no means of knowing until I should have seen my husband alone and observed his behavior toward me—he now had resumed his former attitude, and there was a sudden tension of my nerves as I turned toward the door which told me that I feared the effect of this drawling quip upon Dicky.

These should be under great impetus for success and gratification. There may be subtle or secret angles to these, particularly in connection with emotional affairs. Be careful with writings and in making changes.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of surprising, intriguing or singular experiences. These may unfold a peculiar romantic phase, or love affairs may assume a subtle development overshadowing all commonplace interests.

Although a child born on this day may be spiritually minded, mystically inclined and fond of the subtle and curious, yet it is apt to be gracious, sociable and popular. It may have unusual talents.

MONDAY ASTROLOGICAL forecast stresses the social and cultural, but energies spent in these directions may not prove entirely satisfactory. There is need to refrain from over-indulgence, extravagance or too generous an outlay in social or friendly pursuits.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which the social element or matters of friendship may be paramount. There are signs of indulgence and extravagance in these, possibly to an unwarranted and unprofitable measure. Refrain from all such indulgences and speculation and safeguard the funds even with friends and relations.

A child born on this day may be keen and alert, with fine business and intellectual forces and faculties. It should reach good position socially, although it may be inclined to be extravagant unless given early training in thrift and conservatism.

Made in Orphanage

The orphanage scene was made at the 46-year-old Los Angeles Sisters of Charity orphanage and it was a gala day for the more than 100 orphan girls, ranging in age from 3 to 16, when the motion picture people moved in to shoot a carnival scene. The kids watched a real circus complete with cages of monkeys, tumbling clowns and bright balloons. They played with Edith Fellows and they crowded around Bing while he sang songs especially for them and then they asked for and received his autograph. Sister Cecilia, superior of the orphanage, agreed that the occasion was not only a gala one for the children but for the 17 nuns of the St. Vincent de Paul Order who comprise her staff. It was the first picture made at the orphanage since Mary Pickford took a company there in 1919 for the making of Daddy Long Legs.

Ted Healy, Edmund Gwenn, Zasu Pitts, Walter Kingsford, Edgar Kennedy, Gustav von Seyffertitz and Herbert Rawlinson are some of the well known players who support Lowe and Miss Landi in Mad Holiday, a comedy mystery picture. Lowe is cast as an actor who is sick and tired of playing detective parts. He stalks out of the studio and takes a boat for San Francisco, pursued by Miss Landi, a writer, and Ted Healy, press agent. The two stage a fake murder to get Lowe's name in the headlines and induce him to return to the studio. But their plans are spoiled when an actual murder is committed in the star's stateroom and he finds himself forced to solve it to save his reputation.

Martha Raye, straight from the great hit she scored in The Big Broadcast of 1937, returns in Hideaway Girl with a fresh batch of swing songs, wisecracks and general hilarity. Shirley Ross, another newcomer who soared to the top rung in the same picture, Robert Cummings, Monroe Owsley, Louis DePron and Ed Brophy are others in the cast.

Lighthearted Story

It is a lighthearted mystery story about a jewel robbery perpetrated on the scene of a marriage ceremony by a female thief disguised as the bride.

Miss Raye puts on a bit of business in putting across the new song Beethoven, Mendelssohn and Liszt, in which she not only shouts and swings but goes into several dances which are enough to tire a pony ballet.

Tarzan is captured by a white hunter who hopes to exhibit him but is rescued by Miss O'Sullivan and his animal friends in Tarzan Escapes. With Weissmuller and Miss O'Sullivan in the cast are John Buckler, Benita Hume, William Henry and hundreds of natives.

The largest location camp ever established for a Tarzan production, with a company of 150 encamped in a man-made jungle near Brent's Crags in the Santa Monica mountains, was set up for Tarzan Escapes.

More than a year of extensive location shooting was required to give the atmosphere and backgrounds the details of authenticity.

A Gene Autry singing western, Red River Valley, will be shown on the same bill. The plot deals with the building of a huge dam destined to bring much needed water to a desert of waste land. A crooked banker enters into league with the superintendent of the irrigation company to wreck the project, the latter being jealous of Autry's success as suitor for the affections of Frances Grant, daughter of the company's president. George Chesebro, for 2 years a popular stage and screen actor, plays the role of the tough construction boss who gives Autry most of his trouble and his fights. The comedy is handled by Smiley Burnett, fat and jovial radio and screen singing comedian.

Postal Inspector, featuring Ricardo Cortez and Patricia Ellis, and Ride 'Em Cowboy, in which Buck Jones is the star, will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday.

The last three days of the week the program will be Prison Shadows, featuring Eddie Nugent and Lucille Lund, and a Bob Steele western, Sundown Saunders.

Nugent plays the role of a young boxer who, because he was convicted of killing a ring opponent, had to serve part of a prison sentence until released on parole. It is Forrest Taylor in the role of fight manager and promoter who effects his release and speedily matches him again for another fight with the astonishing result that for the second time Nugent sees an antagonist collapse and die under his blows. But this time he knows the dead man was not injured by punches, suspects foul play and sets himself to run down the real authors of the double homicide.

Supporting Nugent and Miss Lund are Joan Barclay, Syd Saylor and Monte Blue—one time star of the silent screen.

In Sundown Saunders Steele plays the role of a fighting sheriff of the old time west who rallied a posse and fought the outlaws who crossed the Mexican border and rode on spectacular raids bringing death and destruction to many towns and returning to their hideouts laden with loot.

A DUTY TO PERFORM.

THE POLICE department has received an important assignment from Mayor Smith. He has called attention to reports of widespread gambling in the city and has directed the department through its chief to have such law violation stopped.

There should be no necessity, of course, for the mayor to issue such an order. Where infractions of the law are known to exist the duty of the police is clearly and unmistakably defined. Their job is to apply the remedy that lies within their power.

The chief points to circumstances which he says make elimination of gambling difficult in Marion, especially lack of funds for financing investigations and obtaining evidence. The public realizes all this and is aware that the job has its obstacles and complications. But at the same time the public expects its police department to solve such problems. It is not satisfied with hearing about obstacles which stand in the way of law enforcement but wishes to hear that there is to be enforcement regardless of obstacles.

In all police activities they must match their wits and skill against the wits and skill of lawbreakers, and if the police can't win the contest a sad state of affairs results for the public. There should be no danger of that outcome, however. The advantages are preponderantly in favor of the police. They have with them the law, authority, public backing and every other element on the side of right and human welfare, and that's a combination virtually unbeatable if used by an alert and aggressive agency.

The instructions issued by Mayor Smith certainly are not unreasonable nor do they set a goal hard to reach. He says he has no expectation of seeing gambling entirely eliminated in Marion but is convinced that it can be held in check and reduced to a minimum. That possibly is as much as can be hoped for in Marion or any other city. But there is no excuse for open and widespread gambling operations or for games of chance which endanger the morals of minors. Correcting a situation of that sort should be accomplished effectively and without much difficulty by a police department.

An interesting and striking demonstration of how large scale gambling is handled in some cities has been provided in Toledo recently. There an elaborately equipped gambling place was raided and dismantled twice by police, first shortly after it started operating and again when an attempt was made to reopen it. In taking this action the raiders had assurance of the city's law department that persons who possess gambling equipment have no legal rights of ownership and that consequently police assume no liability of suit in seizing such property.

Private Affairs.

The thing Americans can't understand about King Edward's trouble is the way his subjects are sitting in personal judgment on his private affairs. What business is it of theirs whom he marries?

They make it their business, of course, for a good reason. British political structure leans on the throne. The throne must have prestige, i. e., the occupant of the throne must command respect. Americans don't demand so much from their leader.

Voice: The dickens we don't. We sit up nights worrying about the prestige of the home instead. When the people in the White House don't walk chalk we yell like wild Indians. We complain because the President's wife would rather talk than read good books in the privacy of her sitting room. Delivery of a case of beer at the White House is back fence gossip. If the President grew a beard or his wife bobbed her hair there would be crowds marching on Pennsylvania avenue. From the time the chief executive and his family march into the White House until they march out and a good many years afterward every move they make is placed under personal judgment by their countrymen.

No New Taxes.

Gov. Davey, returning to his office a few days ago, said he hoped to continue his policy of no new taxes. On Thursday a report of the state tax commission said the 1937 state budget would show a deficit of $19,088,919 unless new sources of revenue could be found.

Ohio is about to test a theory which has found favor in Washington, that a rising tide of prosperity will produce the additional revenue needed by government without creating new supplies of revenue. The federal government is planning in terms of from two to three years when it uses the theory. Ohio must plan in terms of one year.

As the experiment begins in this state it is general opinion that it would be a good trick if it could be worked but that probably it can't be worked. It's simply too good to be true.

One Last Request.

Santa Claus will be a busy man the next three weeks. No one objects if he hires lots of people, not even if he lets them wear his red suits and black boots.

But do they have to wear his whiskers too? Couldn't they be clean shaven instead of trying to imitate the original Santa Claus? There is a reason for such foolish questions.

Thousands of children who never have seen Santa Claus in person think the fellows with lean faces and sallow complexions who get on the payroll each December are the real thing—not because they look like Santa Claus in the least but simply because they wear white whiskers.

A few fussy persons bring up this matter every year, usually after Christmas. Bringing it up before Christmas won't do any more good, but now it's out of the way. Maybe Santa Claus will read it.

Marriage Stir in Foreign Service

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1936 by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 — International marriages may shake an empire when royalty is involved, but there are curious [illegible] in America, too, as more and [illegible] likely be given by the citizens [illegible] the recent order signed by President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull forbidding members of the American foreign service from marrying into other nationalities.

The formal order merely requires the diplomatic or consular officer to submit his resignation and ask [illegible] for permission, but it is a foregone conclusion that no such permission will be granted and [illegible] exceptions will be made.

While it is true that the United States is simply following the lead of the other principal governments of the world, the reasons which prompt the action are rather significant.

For one thing, the custom grew out of the experience of diplomatic officers during the World war. The United States government in 1914 was asked to serve through its embassies and legations on behalf of Great Britain and France. Where the American embassy in a certain country had on its staff some one who was married to a German or Austrian, there was suspicion created which, while absolutely unwarranted from an American point of view, constituted embarrassments from the then allied point of view.

Possibility of War

The possibility of war in Europe in the next two or three years has been discussed by American officials who feel that the United States government should be free so far as possible to serve as neutrals through embassies and legations in taking care of the diplomatic interests of governments which have formally become belligerents.

As the order was originally drawn, a marriage by an American diplomatic or consular officer with a woman citizen of a foreign country was to mean instant resignation from the service, but this was modified by high officials so as to permit the resignation to be offered and the discretion to be vested in the President or the secretary of state.

This introduction of discretionary power is bound to become embarrassing. Members of congress friendly to the diplomatic or consular officer in question will doubtless wish to intercede so as to get the department of state to exercise its discretion in such a way as to permit the officer to retain his post. Under such pressure, if the executive branch of the government ever does make an exception, it will be very difficult to refuse permission to others. To decline to allow certain marriages while sanctioning others will be interpreted as a reflection on the individuals concerned and may produce complications [illegible] foreseen.

Just when the discretionary power was expected [illegible] is not known, but the supposition is that the department of state did not wish to interfere with romances that have been under way, or at least where formal engagements may have been announced in recent weeks or months prior to the issuance of the formal order.

Possible Exceptions

If any exceptions are made, it may be on the [illegible] that the diplomatic officers in question entered into their plans for matrimony before they could possibly have known of the department's intention to issue the order. In other words, these individuals will seek to have their cases stand on the same footing with those marriages between American foreign service officers and aliens which have already occurred.

It has not been suggested, of course, that American foreign service officers must resign or divorce their wives if the latter happen to be aliens. A certain number of American diplomats and consuls are married to aliens and these cases, while not many, are bound to raise problems of transfers in the event that the United States government should take over the diplomatic interests of any other country in some international dispute. The wording of the order not only forbidding marriages between American diplomats and women of foreign countries but forbidding any new officers to be designated in the foreign service of the United States who are already married to aliens is in part as follows:

> This regulation is based upon the principle that officers of the foreign service are expected to be available in the discretion of the President for duty in any country or in any part of the world, and that anything which detracts from the availability of individual officers has an adverse effect upon their usefulness and upon the efficiency of the service.

Officials here are insistent that no cases of disloyalty have arisen and that the order is not based on anything more than the experience of the United States in the last war and the imminence of another war in Europe.

It Won't Be Long Now

NEXT TUESDAY, if all goes well, the Ohio legislature will meet in special session to do something about unemployment insurance. Few Ohioans can believe all will go well, but they might be surprised by sudden action.

Earlier this year the same legislature admitted it couldn't get anywhere with the problem. There is more incentive now than there was then. Growing popular interest in all forms of social security legislation will help many of the legislative brethren, as well as the lobbyists behind them and in front of them, to surmount obstacles formerly called insurmountable.

Ohio is going to have an unemployment insurance law. It may be a bad law or a good one; the state hopes it can fumble through its perplexities somehow and arrive at a good law. The time has come when something must be done, either in the lame duck session convening next Tuesday or early in the new legislature which meets in January.

It's no use to mark time and wait for something to turn up any longer. It will be a long time before the supreme court rules on a social security case, and its ruling in the New York case two weeks ago proved that a state act may be upheld independently of the national act. That will rob certain representatives and senators of a treasured alibi.

The federal social security act, which authorizes collection of unemployment insurance taxes from employers pending passage of state legislation, puts pressure on employers themselves to keep the money they must pay out in their own state, at least, even if they can't keep it in their own pockets.

Main Center Controversy

The sharpest point of difference in discussion of unemployment insurance in Ohio is the method of handling the money from which benefits would be paid. One faction demands a statewide pool. Another faction insists that payments should be segregated in employers' accounts. Both factions are too extreme, though the positions they have taken are not peculiar to Ohio's debate. All states which have unemployment insurance laws—there were 16 in the beginning of this month—have gone through the same thing.

Only one of them, Wisconsin, whose law was passed in 1932 and is now in full force, decided to experiment with a straight employer reserve account type of fund in which each employer's contributions are credited to his individual account and from which benefits are paid only to his former employes.

At the same time no favor has been shown for a straight pool type of fund into which contributions are dumped at a flat rate and drawn out in the same fashion. Thirteen states have laws which provide a merit rating of some kind governing contributions, and the three other states which have laws or studying the plan with a view to revising their statutes. Indiana has combined the Wisconsin plan and the merit rating plan, segregating a part of the contributions and lumping the [illegible]

Variety of Risks

The purpose of a merit rating governing contributions is to give recognition to the fact that some employes are better insurance risks than those in seasonal occupations where steady work is impossible. Employers in stabilized occupations should not be charged, and no matter who pays the tax it's employes who are going to get charged for it, as high a premium. They are preferred risks.

This theory was indorsed in the report on unemployment insurance made in 1932 to Gov. White by a special governor's commission appointed to study the subject. The commission recommended a single fund like the workmen's compensation fund with which Ohioans are familiar.

Following further the example of workmen's compensation, the commission advised the premiums paid by employers in different industries should be varied according to a merit rating system so that those whose records show they cause a high rate of unemployment will pay higher premiums than those who cause less unemployment.

Finding to the Contrary

An opposite conclusion was reached not long afterward by what was called the Interstate commission on unemployment insurance, composed of representatives of the governors of New York, Ohio, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Connecticut. The following paragraph is taken from the text of its report:

The payments made by each employer should constitute the unemployment reserves of his firm. This proposal differs radically from the European plan of unemployment insurance in which contributions from all employers and all industries flow into a single common pool. It has been widely recognized even by sympathetic critics of European practice that the pooling of reserves has had unfortunate results. The irregular industries enabled to draw benefits for their unemployed workmen from the common pool may be thus

Old Battle Of King And Premier

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5 — King Edward's friends here never contended he was a wizard at statesmanship. They knew also he would sooner or later attempt to assert his independence of the British politicians in his private life. That seems to have been his one ambition for years. But no one suspected he intended to select an issue he had no chance of winning.

Behind the turn of events during the last few days is, of course, the same old inside struggle between king and prime minister going back to Victoria's day and beyond. Their relationship in the British government often makes for a natural conflict of personalities which Edward's predecessors have solved by invariable subservience.

Those who know about such events are wondering what would have happened this time if the spunky king had chosen an issue in which the church was not involved. He might have had a chance if he had made a marriage choice or selected a line of private conduct displeasing only to Premier Baldwin, whom he never liked anyway. As it was, Baldwin wisely remained in the background and let the church take the leadership in presenting the problem to the British nation.

The impression is general in official quarters here, therefore, that the king lost his fight when he first chose the issue. To abide by the wishes of church and cabinet meant permanent recognition of his limited sphere.

Sympathies

Published dispatches relate that Baldwin told the king the American government had informally advised him it was opposed to the marriage.

Mr. Baldwin must have misunderstood what he heard from Washington or else he was using an imaginative argument to influence the king. The American government has told him nothing informally or otherwise. It will not even whisper internationally about the matter because it has no interest in it. The ex-Mrs. Simpson is a British subject.

But if it makes any difference to Mr. Baldwin or the king, most American officials personally agree with the stand taken by the cabinet and the church. They timed their announcement of the state department ban on alien marriages of American diplomats to indicate what they thought about international marriages of American diplomats. It was a wholly indirect step and had long ago been decided upon in connection with another matter, but it was nevertheless a hint.

Three or four government officials here know Mrs. Simpson and they are for her. The others who look at the matter more abstractly as a problem of government decided or not.

Problem

What interests the American government more than the Simpson affair is the British employment figure indicating a new high record at 11,103,000, an increase of 587,000 above the boom peak of 1929. The booming building industry there accounts for much of the disparity between their unemployment and ours. Production in the British building materials and building groups constituted a record for the third quarter of 1936. Ours was about 50 per cent of normal.

Readers out through the country have detected one factor holding back building which was omitted from a recent analysis published in this spot. That is taxes.

The Iowa Association for Tax Justice says the tax load on invested real estate makes it cheaper to get a trailer and live in it rather than rent or build. The Citizens Volunteer Committee of Minnesota asserts tenant occupied property is almost unsalable at any price in some sections because of local and state taxes and large residences are worth a small fraction of their cost or assessed value.

Idle Hope

Among the plans talked of legislative suggestions which will never be passed is the one of the senate campaign investigating committee proposing to limit presidential campaign expenditures to $1,000,000 for each party.

Practical politicians know it would only cause campaign organizations to break up into a variety of subsidiaries and not decrease the total amount spent by all. While the national committees would undoubtedly limit themselves to a million apiece, their countless subsidiaries could each raise and spend a million. Other obvious subterfuges are limitless.

It would require a constitutional amendment to prevent any citizen from spending what he chooses in a political campaign.

Cupid's Tempest

The state department has several Wallis Simpson cases of its own making on its hands as a result of its alien marriage plan. Officials do not want to talk about it, but the kickbacks from the foreign service workers have been strong and hard. It seems that three or four American diplomats were engaged to foreign women at the time of the announcement. The United States government may have several breach of promise suits in store.

As the Fire Wagons Go By

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—Here I am all undressed and in bed at midnight and a big fire breaks out a block or so away. Hear those fire wagons clanging by! Boy, how I'd like to be at that back wheel of the long ladder wagon. You know, hatless, hair blowing and leaning way out rounding corners.

Or running up the ladder with flames licking at heel—it will be like some prowler to make it a heel—while a spire rises red against the night sky. Rescuing lovely lady stuff. Reaching safety just as a giant wall swoons slowly over with a sickening crash.

Where in the name of Hohokus is that other sock? Oh, there you are. On top of the clock. I must have taken it off just as I started to wind it—the clock, I mean. The dreamy puttery type. Never know just what I'll do next. Sometimes I start wandering and before I know it I'm over by the river. Or something.

Any person who leaves a nice warm room on a night like this even for a fire has a dash of Richard the Lion Hearted. A good time to open the season for my raccoon coat. Nothing so comforting for a lone red corpuscle as to wrap it up in a lot of fur. Just a confused coddler.

My luck to reach the lines without a police card. If I had people around me who cared a fig for my welfare they would see I didn't go to a fire without that card. But who cares what happens to me? My job is to work my fingers to the bone to make others happy and whatever is left over is mine. I mustn't start crying with so many neighbors probably going to the fire too. I'll walk right through the police guard as though I had a card. I look like a newspaperman sometimes, side view. Here I go! What right has that cop to shove me around that way? I thought for a moment he had unhinged my neck. And then jeer: "Better hurry back to New Haven, Chester, you'll be late for chapel." That swipe was for the raccoon coat.

Don't look now, but in my hurry I forgot to put on my pants. But no matter, the good old raccoon hides all. Never in my life did I ever seem to be so in the way. Why can't they make out I'm not here? If it isn't a cop shoving me it's a fireman or some private citizen who has an idea I have no right to be breathing. I have as much right here as any one. I'm a taxpayer—boy, am I a taxpayer!—and as good a citizen as the next fellow. For two cents I'd get up on that fire plug and make a speech about my rights. There goes my hat over my ears again. They take me for one of those Hit him once you get one cigar fellows.

That cop has a kindly face. Probably a family man. I'll tell him how I forgot my police card. I'll clear my throat nicely. Sometimes my voice changes in the night air and takes off in a flutey uptake. Like Ed Wynn. The cop listens and just grunts "Yeah" and goes on. I'd like to tell him how much he means in my life. In spades.

Anyway I can lean against this abandoned doorway. Leaning is nice work if you can get it. A lean learner. How's that for fast thinking? Without my pants I'm beginning to chill a little around the ankles. And I wish that stray mutt would go on away and quit sniffing this coat. He probably takes me for some new kind of animal. What an exciting evening. Dash out to a fire, have to stand around in a doorway and be sniffed by a dog.

OHIO SET TO ACT ON JOB INSURANCE

...o shift the responsibility ...st of their own unemploy... to more stable and pro... dustries.

...legislature's confusion is ...s a reflection of the differ... experts. There is but one ...o do under the circum... That is to make the best compromise possible and trust to tha everything will come ...ight in the wash. The ...urity experiment calls ...ood deal of daring. If Ohio makes mistakes it will have plenty of company.

Sen Bart T McIntyre of Cuyahoga county has prepared a proposal for a pooled fund with a merit rating for contributions which supplies the grounds of a compromise.

Regardless of what the state does or doesn't do its employers are subject to a tax for unemployment insurance. There is no point in further delay. That was the intention of the federal law—to make it easier for states to move than to stand still.

Unemployment insurance may be a mistake. Americans who know nothing about it have been carried away by the magic of the phrase into a land of illusions. They are bound to be disappointed.

Nevertheless by all the known means of judging public opinion unemployment insurance is what the people want. The legislature which has kicked around the question for four years has nothing to gain by further delay. Because legislators are politicians and therefore inclined to do what they think the public wants them to do it probably won't be many more weeks before Ohio is added to the list of states with unemployment insurance laws. A leader in social legislation before it won't be very far behind now.

USED BY EVERY ONE IN FAMILY

Wiant's Book Store at 120 South Main St Has Exclusive Agency

For those who are looking for a Christmas gift for most any member of the family who want something of a personal nature yet a gift that will be as highly prized as any luxury a Royal portable typewriter will fill the bill to perfection. Royal portables as well as the standard sized machines are handled exclusively in Marion county by Wiant's book store at 120 South Main street.

Perhaps few gifts can be found that have as wide appeal or can be used by as many members of the family as a portable typewriter. For that reason it is suggested as an ideal Christmas gift.

For the student whether in college or high school a portable is becoming more indispensible each year. Permanent class room notes are more easily kept for future reference if typed than if written in longhand. Essays themes and reports to be turned in to instructors have a neater appearance and students will find that with a little experience in typing they are able to express their thoughts more clearly while sitting at a typewriter than when writing in longhand.

For the clubwoman who has papers to prepare for her club or records of meetings to keep nothing comes in handier than a speedy and compact portable. It has a thousand uses in the home and will have few idle moments for every member of the family can use it. Mothers club work or personal correspondence sons' or daughters' school work fathers' extra office work at night all find uses for a portable. And if there is any time left the little tots before school age take much more interest in learning their A B C's if they can tap out the letters on a typewriter.

But the Royal portable isn't entirely a home necessity. It is finding a wide use in offices as an auxiliary to the standard machines already used. The selection of type faces available with the purchase of a Royal make it ideal for either personal or business correspondence.

The Royal portable is a small typewriter in size only. It possesses many of the features found on the standard Royal including touch control a Royal improvement which enables anyone instantly to adapt the key tension to individual finger pressure.

Royal portables come in an attractive carrying case making them ideal for business or pleasure trips.

MORE INVENTIONS NEEDED, COYLE SAYS

NEW YORK—More inventions not fewer are needed to gear the wheels of mass production to greater speed and provide additional production that will bring unemployment to a minimum M E Coyle president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor company told members of the Advertising club of New York at its recent annual automobile meeting.

Mr Coyle who was introduced to the advertising men and automotive leaders by Henry T Ewald president of the Campbell-Ewald Company urged a greater use of machinery to lead mass production industry to even greater heights in the future.

"We need more not less inventions" Mr Coyle declared. "We need more goods at a lower price within a range where more of our people can be induced to buy and can afford to pay—not less goods at higher prices. Our unemployment problem cannot possibly be solved by any other method."

Mr Coyle drew a picture of the economic laws that determine the effect of production costs on selling price of selling price on volume and of volume on unemployment figures, citing the history of Chevrolet as an example of how mass production works.

CIRCUIT BREAKERS.

The days of the old sport of grubbing around in the debris of the cellar and trying to find a new fuse to replace the one that has just burned out are numbered. Circuit breakers are now available for even the lowest cost houses. With these there are no fuses to replace, just a tumbler switch to turn and the circuit is fixed. Located in the kitchen or some other such convenient place, it is no job at all now.

Since opening his business here Mr Moser a veteran in the tire business in Marion and Cleveland has built up an attractive trade in new tires batteries and tire retreading.

Using the new Kito-Mold system of tire retreading Mr Moser turns out a tire that has all the appearance and wearing qualities of a new tire. Many thousands of miles of service can be rebuilt into a worn tire providing the sidewalls are in good condition.

Mr Moser also carries a line of new tires tubes and batteries. A complete tire and battery service is maintained by the shop with facilities for answering calls for road service.

Keep Eyes Open for Reckless Auto Drivers

When you see an automobile coming down the road toward you don't think of the driver as a safe driver who knows what to do in every emergency. Think of him as a potentially reckless operator.

Moreover imagine that on the other side of every hill there is a reckless driver coming over the hill on the left-hand side of the road.

Further imagine that directly behind you is a driver who hasn't had his brakes relined since he bought the car a long time ago. He might run into you if you stop too suddenly.

And remember you are the only one who will look after yourself. You can't tell what the other fellow is going to do.

If you are going to avoid having an accident you must take on yours if all the responsibility for your own safety.

So drive accordingly.

Just Things

Pests

THESE are halcyon days for we [illegible] with a yen for sauntering through the stores peering into vases, lifting lids of casseroles, jelly pots and other containers which we know to be empty. In fact, the Christmas gift-laden counters are just the answer to a lid-lifter's prayer. Imagine a half dozen teapots to peer into, tea kettles with lids that flip up with just a simple little twist of the thumb and pretty, gay vases with ears into which one may poke fingers, to say nothing of dozens of other gadgets about which to ask questions. Then there is another branch of this particular service, the flippers, meaning of course, those of us who despite the word of the clerk who tells us they are all the same design, must leaf through the dozen or more tidies and aprons designed by the storekeeper to be seen and not thumbed. We really might remember, at least during the next few weeks of mad scrambling, to observe the hands off signs and get in line for the unspoken blessing of the sister who has to straighten up after us. Why do they do it, queried a good friend of ours, adjusting the lid of a teakettle which we were just itching to flip.

White Elephant

IF you meet a member of the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs during the next few days with a purposeful gleam in her orbs and taking the home stretch like Grant took Richmond, don't get excited. She has just thought of something else to take to the white elephant sale the federation is sponsoring next Friday and Saturday at the City market. They're really in earnest about this, which means of course that it's going to be a huge success. They want everything, anything or what have you that can't be made use of in your house but can serve a very worthwhile purpose in some one else's home. We've never been to a white elephant sale so it goes without saying there is one customer they are sure of and it's our guess there are others in the same boat.

Oysters

OYSTER fans who never seem to get enough of them might enjoy an individual oyster pie, the recipe of a chef in a well known restaurant. Two tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, few grains of pepper, [illegible] cup oyster liquor, 1½ cups milk, 20 raw oysters and pastry. Make a cream sauce with butter, flour, milk and oyster liquor. Cool. Place one-quarter cup cold cream sauce in bottom of each baking dish. Place five raw oysters in each and cover with cream sauce. Roll out pastry to fit dish. Make holes in the crust to allow steam to escape. Cover dish with pastry and bake in hot oven until crust is golden brown. Makes four pies.

Wally's Kin Were British Nobility Before Edward's

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The New York Sun says today the family of Mrs. Bessie Wallis Warfield Simpson was established on a noble foundation in England 648 years before King Edward VIII's family was established there.

While the king's German ancestors were trotting about in the North Sea meadows or riding in the bleak Hanoverian sand hills, her forebears were hurtling with William the Conqueror.

It was a dislike for the actions of the house of Hanover (the present reigning Windsors), when King Edward's ancestors came to the English throne in 1714, which led Wallis Simpson's ancestors, the Warfields, to leave England for America. The Warfields disliked the Hanoverian king who preferred his home in Hanover to England and neglected Englishmen and their interests.

When her father, Teackle Wallis Warfield, married Alice Montague, he united two families, both of whose houses had an aristocratic beginning in England. The Montagues came to Virginia in 1624 and a descendant of the first American Montague distinguished himself in the revolution.

The coat of arms of the Warfields has as distinguished a beginning as that of King Edward. It has two camels facing a shield, while atop a helmet is a lamb bearing a banner. The camels probably represent some feat of the Warfields in the crusades to the Holy Lands.

[illegible] is under the direction [illegible] Buzzington in real life [illegible] an Indiana farmer [illegible] real Dick Hud- dleston after whom Lum and Abner modelled one of their favorite characters of the same name appears with the troupe. He is actually postmaster of Pine Ridge and operates a general store. He is impersonated on the radio by Abner who also takes the role of conniving Squire Skimp.

Other members include a whistler of remarkable ability, Comedian Gus Merril, Fred Ferg, trombonist and arranger for the band, Karl Kobitmeyer, trombonist, Roy Ward, Zeke Tritchler and others. A feature of the show is a big band with washboards, milk pails, a scythe, a saw and a butter churn as instruments. A collection of bottles serves as a xylophone for one act. For the finale the band members change from their overalls and suspenders to brand uniforms purchased at the "Jot 'em Down Store."

Film Is Good

The film is "The Luckiest Girl in the World" and is so entertaining and well acted that its lack of advance publicity from the studio is hardly understandable. Jane Wyatt, former Broadway stage star in several hits including "Dinner at Eight," takes the lead with Louis Hayward, capable young English actor, supporting her. The lines are clever and well directed and the plot, though obvious, is fresh and entertaining. In the cast are Eugene Pallette as a self-made man, Catherine Doucet as his pampered wife, Nat Pendleton as a "flat-foot" detective and Philip Reed as a gold-digging Romeo.

The story is of a rich girl who wants to marry a poor boy and is put on a budget by her father for a month to see if she could live on a small salary. She moves to a rooming house and, as is to be expected, meets a charming young man, also poor, who falls in love with her for herself alone. Eventually even he turns out rich, and Jane marries the second poor boy and the first poor boy elopes with a still richer girl.

The [illegible] is a rib-tickling Edgar Kennedy comedy. Starting tomorrow is "Pennies from Heaven" with Bing Crosby and Madge Evans.—J. E.

Lawmakers Seek Constitutional Peace Provision

Host of Amendments To Be Offered as Means of Keeping U S Out of Next War

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5—A host of constitutional amendments—some of them designed to keep America out of war or to broaden federal control over agriculture and industry—will be introduced in the new congress convening in January.

Sen. Logan, Democrat, of Kentucky, announced today he would ask approval of an amendment firmly establishing congress' right to control the production of any product which may move in or affect interstate or foreign commerce.

Another constitutional change permitting the voters to veto any declaration of war in a popular referendum also will be introduced early in the session, Logan said.

A more drastic neutrality measure forbidding the United States to engage in any war or even to prepare for armed conflict will be offered by Sen. Frazier, Republican of North Dakota.

Sen. Nye, Republican of North Dakota, announced he was drafting two proposed constitutional changes, one to prohibit American participation in any foreign war and another authorizing the conscription of money and factories in war time.

Fifteen amendments to give congress power to regulate agriculture and industry or to establish minimum wage and labor standards were laid before the last congress and the same questions seemed certain to come up again during the next session.

Among them is the proposal of Sen. Norris, Independent of Nebraska, to require a two-thirds vote of the supreme court to invalidate any federal statute. Other measures intended to curb the court's power were offered by half a dozen representatives.

One of the most frequently advocated of all constitutional modifications, a proposal forbidding the issuance of tax exempt securities by either state or federal governments, appeared almost certain to be reintroduced in the first days of the session.

SYNOPSIS: Returning to his home town, Philip Page takes over the Weston Courier and [illegible] the workers of the Morris mill in their fight for better homes. He enlists Sally Warren, the society editor, who has been in love with Terry Maynard. [illegible] Sally breaks her engagement with Terry when she finds that he and her wilful younger sister are in love. A whirlwind of parties precedes the marriage of Tip and Terry, who are about to leave for South America. Sally must hide her grief and convince them she has not been jilted.

CHAPTER TWENTY FOUR

A Dynamite Threat

SALLY took off her wrap and laid it carefully on the rose colored taffeta spread that covered Mary Morris' bed. The ivory and rose perfection of Mary's room always dazzled her.

The soft rose rug made her footsteps noiseless as she went over to the dressing table to powder her nose. The triple mirror caught three pictures of her. She could not help seeing that she looked her best. She was glad she had yielded to the temptation to get herself two new dresses, one for the party and one for the wedding. Mrs. Warren had insisted they must not look dowdy beside Tip.

Sally's dress was chiffon in soft shades of rose and blue. She had arranged her hair differently, making a thick braid of it and winding it about her head coronet fashion. It was necessary that she look both gay and attractive.

The dance was an elaborate affair. Mary had secured one of the best orchestras. Against the masses of summer flowers that decorated the rooms the dancers moved, making gay, fanlike pictures.

Sally loved to dance and never lacked partners. Tonight she tried not to see Terry and Tip always dancing together. She danced often with Philip Page, and when he was not with her he was usually with Mary Morris.

Joe Morris Jr. was drinking too many cocktails—consolation, he called it. He insisted on dancing often with Sally and to her [illegible] he treated her like the partner of his sorrow.

"You've been thrown over too, Sally," he said as they danced. "Now don't deny that you expected to marry Terry Maynard just as I hoped for Tip."

"You're wrong, Joe," said Sally. "I'm not in love and I haven't been. I'm much too sensible. I know I have my own living to make. I have to keep my mind on that."

"Go on," said Joe thickly. "You want Terry. I want Tip. Everybody knows it."

Bob Winkler, a boy Sally had known for years, cut in on them to Sally's relief. Across the room she saw Mary and Philip break away from the dancers and go out into the hall. Philip was going for his interview with old Joe Morris.

"May I?"

Some one had cut in on Sally and Bob Winkler. Without looking Sally knew it was Terry.

Quarrel in the Library

"After tomorrow we'll be off your hands for good," said Terry, breaking the silence that constrained them.

"It's a long way—South America," said Sally. Would he, Sally wondered, always have this power to make her heart beat faster? He did not dance so well as Philip or even Bob, but dancing with him was a keen delight. After tonight there would never be any more dancing with Terry for Sally.

"We'll stop in Rio a week," said Terry. "It'll be the longest flight Tip's ever made."

"She'll love it," Sally said faintly.

"You bet. She's got nerve, that kid. She'll go anywhere I go, try anything I'll let her. But you don't need to be worried about her. I'll take care of her."

Sally suddenly caught a glimpse of herself as Terry saw her—a sort of nursemaid for Tip. The idea was more than she could bear. When they [illegible] Terry [illegible] of the house seemed deserted. The right wing of the big house was in partial darkness with a single light burning in the library. Sally made her way toward the light. She would find a place to sit in the darkness near the library. Perhaps Philip Page would come out by and by and she could ask him to take her home.

In the darkness Sally ran against a girl who was standing against the wall of the house in the shadow of tall shrubbery.

"Sh-h. It's me," said Mary Morris, drawing Sally in the shadow with her. "I'm listening in on Dad and Philip Page. They're having a terrible row."

Sally could hear the voices upraised in the library, angry, loud voices, both of them. "Can we get closer and hear what they say?" she whispered. Mary answered by sliding along the wall until they were beside the lighted window and could see the two men inside.

"If you know what's good for you," said Mr. Morris, who was seated at his desk, "you'll get out of this town and stay out. You came here to make trouble. You'll get it."

"You know as well as I do," said Philip, "the Palace theater is unsafe. Horton condemned it. That's one of the reasons he lost his job."

"Horton lost his job because he doesn't know anything about building inspection. He condemned the Palace because he was told to by people that want to make trouble for me. I've had the Palace examined by competent men. I carry insurance on it. It's just as safe as this house."

"That's only one issue," said Philip. "Let's get down to business. Do you intend to go on fighting against the town's demand that you clean up your slum districts?"

"The town's demand!" Mr. Morris snorted angrily. "You mean your demand. If you think a young pup like you who never owned a stick of property and never will can tell me what to do with my property, then you're barking up the wrong tree. Now get out."

"Certainly." Philip Page's voice was cool again. "You will remember that you asked me to come here in the first place."

"I did," said Mr. Morris. "I wanted to show you one of these threatening letters I've been getting. You say you don't know anything about them, but that makes you no less guilty. Your paper has stirred up the riff-raff of this town and got 'em so crazy they threaten to blow up my house." He shoved a letter at Philip. "A letter—to me—threatening to dynamite this house."

"Turn it over to the police," said Philip, "if you feel the need of a guard around your house. Good night."

In Love With A Criminal"

Sally and Mary crept around the corner of the house and sauntered toward the lighted rooms where the party was still in full swing.

"Dad didn't tell me he had a letter like that," said Mary. "How exciting! Someone wants to blow us up!"

"I don't think it's exciting," said Sally. "It's terrible. What if they really try it?"

"Oh, they never really do," said Mary. "Dad used to get letters threatening to kidnap Joe and me, or threatening to burn down the house if dad didn't send $200,000 by the next mail. Most of those people are cranks. They find out a man has money and try some silly scheme like that. Dad used to just hand the letters over to a detective agency and they'd send out a man and catch whoever wrote the letters. Nothing ever happens, except I guess the blackmailer was put in prison."

Sally shivered. At the moment she did not envy Mary the rose and ivory room. Money might bring you a lot of pleasant, delightful things you longed for, but it brought also hatred and envy.

"Being in love with Philip is like being in love with a criminal," laughed Mary. "Dad has painted him in such dark colors that every time I have a date with him—which is very seldom—I feel a delightful shiver of guilt."

"Philip's very good," said Sally seriously. "He thinks very little about himself and very much about helping unfortunate people."

"Darling," protested Mary, squeezing her arm. "You make him sound like a missionary. If Philip were that good I wouldn't be interested in him. But he's stubborn, he's wilful, he doesn't like women and he's a dreadful fighter. That's why I love him."

The two girls almost walked into Philip, who came striding out of the hallway with his hair slightly rumpled and his face full of thunder.

"I'm sorry, Sally, I must go," said Philip. "Shall I take you home or will you stay later and go with Bob Winkler?"

"She'll stay, of course, and so will you," said Mary. "It's silly to leave the party so early just because you've had a row with Dad."

"I'm sorry, but I must go," repeated Philip. "You will understand if you talk to your father why I can't stay now and why I can't possibly come here again." He turned to Sally. "Going or staying, Sally?"

"I'll go," said Sally quickly. "I'll get my wrap in a hurry." She left them before Mary could protest further.

In spite of Philip's impatience to leave, Sally took at least 10 minutes to get her cape. She knew that Mary wanted to talk to Philip.

When Sally reached the porch Mary and Philip were nowhere to be seen. Sally had decided to go in and look for them in the supper room or among the dancers when she caught sight of them. They were dancing together on the porch just outside the French windows through which came the strains of the music. Sally sat down on the bench near the door and waited until the music stopped, then she rose. Philip saw her at once and came forward.

"Goodnight," said Mary. "I'm sorry you must both leave. I'm afraid it hasn't been a good party but I've had an exciting time."

Tip and Terry are married in the Warren garden Monday.

Former Radnor Resident Gains Foothold in Movies

A young man from Radnor is beginning to realize an ambition to be a motion picture actor, according to studio news from Hollywood, where he has been living for the last several years.

He is Evan Lloyd, a son of E. L. Lloyd, who at one time lived on a farm between Prospect and Radnor and recently moved to the motion picture capital.

At present he is working in a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Sinner Take All," which features Margaret Lindsay and Bruce Cabot. The studio reports said he had a small part in the new Eleanor Powell musical extravaganza, "Born to Dance," which played at the Palace theater here Thanksgiving day.

Lloyd had his first taste of the thespian art while attending the Radnor High school, from which he was graduated in 1930. He took part in many of the school plays and played a leading role in the senior class play, "Nothing but the Truth." Among members of the cast he recalled in a studio interview were Mildred [illegible], Lowell Augenstine and Sydney Gray.

His only close relatives living near Marion are an aunt, Mrs. Harvey Perry of Prospect, and an uncle, Ellis Thomas of Prospect.

Lloyd attended the Prospect High school for several months in his freshman year, later transferring to the Radnor High school to finish his schooling. Lloyd went to Hollywood about four years ago.

Harding, St. Mary Cagers Defeat Wyandot Co. Teams

PRESIDENTS SCORE 29-25 VICTORY OVER UPPER SANDUSKY

Crowd of 350 Sees Opening Game of Season at Shovel Gym

BY CHARLES HOSTETLER

Harding High Presidents fired the opening gun of the 1936-37 campaign by turning back a stubborn Upper Sandusky High quintet 29 to 25 at the Marion Steam Shovel gymnasium last night. A crowd estimated at 350 persons witnessed the season-opening game in which Dewey N. Bohyer substituted freely in an apparent effort to pick out the most formidable combination of players to stack up against future opponents. His starting line-up which completed the first quarter intact included three seniors and two juniors all of whom were members of the reserve varsity last season.

The decisive 46 to 18 victory which the 1935 Harding champion team handed the Wyandot combine was narrowed considerably and gave evidence of the task which Coach Bohyer faces in replacing the 12 varsity men lost by graduation last spring.

James Sharrock captain and guard, Frank Roberts forward, [illegible] Roop center all of whom are seniors and Glen Wintermute forward and Bob Wooley guard both junior classmen were the athletes selected to start the game.

Lineup Changed

At the close of the first period an entirely new combination was sent in placing Decker at center, Williams and Fetter at forward and Wiant and Harper at guard. Both of the squads were changed later in the game as Coach Bohyer sought the combine that would produce the best results.

The Presidents chalked up the first marker in the scoring column after the teams had sparred back and forth across the court for the first three and one half minutes. Frank Roberts senior forward was given the honor of tallying Harding's first point of the season. Breaking fast under the basket Roberts made a difficult back-hand shot.

Marion held an 8 to 0 lead at the completion of the first stanza but Upper Sandusky came back to outscore the Presidents by a single point in the second period and trailed 13 to 8 at halftime. The heaviest scoring of the game came in the third period and again the Wyandot county team outpointed Harding by one tally.

Harding was held to two points in the final period while Upper Sandusky counted with a basket and two fouls but was unable to overcome the early margin. For the first game of the season and considering the loss of last year's entire first team Harding showed up well in the opinion of its followers.

The Presidents will move into the midst of a busy schedule next week by traveling to Delaware Friday night and entertaining Bexley here Saturday night. North Central Ohio competition will open the following week when Harding travels to Mt Vernon. No preliminary game was on the schedule last night but two teams of junior varsity cagers coached by Bill Williams took the floor in a brief exhibition contest. Mentor Williams switched players from one team to the other and no official record of the score was available.

Marion Takes Early Lead

The game opened slow and after unsuccessful drives back and forth across the court Roberts dumped his first basket for Marion. Three and one-half minutes had elapsed when Roberts' sucker shot dropped through the hoop and in the following minute of play Harding took a 6 to 0 lead with baskets by Wooley and another by Roberts. Roberts added his third basket giving Marion an 8 to 0 lead at the end of the period.

The all-junior lineup took the floor to start the second stanza and Fetter tallied with a field goal and Williams added a free throw before Sweigard registered the visitors' first score on a shot from action. Marion led 11 to 2. Ulrich, substitute Upper Sandusky forward, registered a sucker shot and Robey added a single point from the foul line. Fetter and Wiant tallied from action for Marion and Iles dumped in a basket for the visitors as Marion led 15 to 8 at half time.

The visiting team opened fast in the third period with Bauer getting a foul and basket and Ulrich adding another field goal before Harding called time out with the score 15 to 13. Harding gained three points on Sharrock's basket and Fetter's free throw but Robey made a free throw for the visitors. Wintermute, Marion forward, broke under the basket from the tip-off play to score a neat sucker shot as Marion held a 20 to 14 lead. A concerted scoring drive of both teams in the following minutes wound up the third period with Marion's advantage at 27 to 21.

From the action-packed third quarter the teams moved into the final period with only few action shots registering. Marion scored on free throws by Williams and Wintermute and the visitors on Bauer's basket and a free throw by Robey. The Presidents made but five attempts from the field in the final period and failed to register while Upper Sandusky loosed a futile long range barrage in the closing minutes. The box score follows:

PAROCHIAL TEAMS DOWN HARPSTER IN TWO CONTESTS

Marion Quintets Open Season on Foreign Court, Losers Lack Experience

St. Mary Parochial High cage teams came through in championship style to win both ends of a double-bill which opened the parochial school season on the Harpster court last night. St. Mary varsity won 20 to 16 and the reserve team gained a 12 to 10 victory.

Coach Bob Kelly depended upon the efforts of 10 St. Mary athletes in the varsity's invasion of the Wyandot county court. The Marion team constructed around four returning lettermen held the top hand during the game last night.

After scoring the initial baskets St. Mary moved into a 15 to 3 lead at the half and with the reserve team playing most of the remaining time held the home squad on an even basis. Harpster was handicapped by the loss of members of last year's varsity.

Coach B. F. Bonvat, who lives at 364 Pearl street in Marion, is tutoring the Harpster squad this season. This is his first year at the school and he has been at a disadvantage because of the lack of experienced material.

Joseph Robbins, center and letterman of the St. Mary combine, was the outstanding scorer of the game. He tossed four action shots through the hoop to account for eight points. Following closely was Louis Meyers, forward, who tallied two field goals and one free throw. Other St. Mary scorers were Jack Sch[illegible] with two field goals, Francis Wissel with one goal and James Heiner with one foul.

The St. Mary Junior varsity team was pushed the limit in eking out the 12 to 10 victory and spectators witnessed an interesting game between two evenly matched squads. The schedule of the Kellymen for next week has not yet been announced but it is likely that the team will play Friday night on a foreign court.

Bill Mehlhorn's Overnight Putt Topic of Talk

By The Associated Press

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Dec. 5 — Bill Mehlhorn's overnight putt took conversational honors today amid second round firing in the $10,000 Miami Biltmore Open golf tournament.

Horton Smith cracked par 71 by three strokes yesterday to lead the unwieldy field and Jack Forrester and Abe Espinosa canned aces but the meet's No. 1 yarn was about Wild Bill's postponed putt.

Darkness came before the 223 starters could finish the first 18 holes.

On the 18th green was Wild Bill, on in two and 12 feet from the flag. He was one over par through the 17th and he had a good chance to wind up with a 70, one under par.

Mehlhorn gauged the extent of the gathering gloom and decided he wouldn't hit that 12-foot putt that day.

He marked the spot where his ball lay and the spot where the hole was sunk and stalked into the locker room announcing if they moved the cups tomorrow before the putted (the holes are bored in different places each day) he was just going to hit the ball over the spot he had marked and if it connected that was his round.

Tournament officials assured him and the other 19 still to complete the first round that the cups would not be changed until they finished.

Bob Servis, Dayton, O., amateur, led his contingent yesterday with a score of 36-37— 3.

20 CAGE TEAMS PLAY IN COUNTY LEAGUE GAMES

LaRue Boys Drop from Ranks of Undefeated, Claridon Wins First Loop Encounter from Morral

Heavy bombardments were witnessed on all fronts last night as county league warfare entered its third round with every team except one active in loop competition.

Three teams in each division of the league stand out as undefeated in games this season. In the boys section Prospect, Agosta and Claridon hold the league top spot while Waldo, Caledonia and Kirkpatrick share the limelight in the girls division.

The LaRue boys team was toppled from the ranks of the undefeated last night by Waldo while Claridon's team participating in its first loop encounter stepped into the top of the averages by marking its first game in the victory column. Standings in the girls competition remained practically the same as last week with the league leaders scoring victories over teams which had previously been defeated.

Large Crowds See Games

Large attendances were reported throughout the county and interest was high as teams battled in contests which marked the completion of one third of the 12 game schedule. Nearly all of the encounters in both divisions resulted in close battles with victorious teams winning by small margins.

In the boys competition Claridon won its first league game by defeating Morral 33 to 24. Jumping into an early lead on its home court the Claridon cagers apparently encountered little trouble in winning by the nine point margin.

Agosta kept its record unblemished by a winning basket in the last 20 seconds of play which accounted for its 28 to 27 victory on the Caledonia court. The lead changed hands often during the game. The home team led 8 to 6 at the first period, 20 to 8 at half time but a super-charged Agosta team displayed a thrilling last half comeback to pull the game out of the fire.

Prospect High cagers visited Martel last night to annex the fourth straight game of the season. Exceptionally effective with action shots and tossing 10 of 13 free throws, Prospect nabbed an early lead over the home team. Bumgartner tossed five baskets and three fouls for Prospect.

LaRue, previously undefeated, toppled before Waldo 17 to 13 on the latter's court. Reed and Lawrence, respective centers of the Waldo and LaRue teams, were banished from the game for unnecessary roughness. In a preliminary Waldo reserves scored a 14 to 12 victory over LaRue High's reserves.

Wins by Two Points

Pleasant and Green Camp, both tied with averages of .500 last week, battled through a close game with Pleasant emerging victorious on its home court 28 to 26. The winning team trailed 6 to 3 at the start of the second period but outscored the visiting quintet in all of the following quarters.

Champions of the county during the past two years the Waldo girls playing on the home court last night trounced the visiting LaRue squad 20 to 8 to annex their fourth straight victory.

Caledonia, another undefeated girls aggregation, romped to a 35 to 7 victory over the Agosta team on the Caledonia court. The victory ran Caledonia's string to three this season. The only other member of the girls division which remains unbeaten is Kirkpatrick which was idle in league competition last night.

The Morral girls invaded Claridon to register a 25 to 11 victory. C. Cochran, center of the winning team, accounted for 12 points, more than the entire opposing club. Pleasant and Green Camp teams were tied with averages of .500 last week and the latter squad eked out a 21 to 17 victory in a clash on the Pleasant court. The Prospect girls team annexed the first win of the season by defeating Martel 29 to 15. Martel previously held a record of one victory in three starts while Prospect had lost three straight games. 24 MAJOR LEAGUE PLAYERS MOVED IN MONTREAL SESSION

Eleven Men Shipped to Minors Which Send 10 Stars to Big Loops

By The Associated Press

MONTREAL, Dec. 5 — The minor-major league player mart was closed today with the big fellows still feeling the effects of deals that changed the teams for 24 major league players.

In addition to deals between major league clubs 11 players were shipped to the minors which sent 10 of their stars up to the big time.

Several deals are expected to be closed when the major leaguers open their winter meetings in New York [illegible].

The Chicago Cubs picked up outfielder Joe Marty from San Francisco, sold outfielder Ethan Allen to the St. Louis Browns and swapped infielder Woody English and southpaw pitcher Roy Henshaw to Brooklyn for third baseman Linus Frey. They sent five players to San Francisco for Marty.

Brooklyn, fulfilling its promise to give Burleigh Grimes some new faces, got English and Henshaw from the Cubs and [illegible] third baseman Jim Jordan, outfielder Stanley (Frenchy) Bordagaray and pitcher Emil Leonard to St. Louis.

Brooklyn also traded pitcher Dutch Brandt to the Pittsburgh Pirates for infielder Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto and southpaw Ralph Birkofer.

Report Landis Investigating Tribe Manager

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 5 — The furore over young Bob Feller, American league strikeout record hurler, took a new turn today with published reports that Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis was "investigating the conduct of Cyril C. Slapnicka," Cleveland Indians general manager, in the fight to retain the prize hurler.

"You're liable to hear almost any kind of story now," asserted Slapnicka, denying any irregularities, "but I don't care to be quoted on any matter in Judge Landis' hands.

"There's no connection between an adverse decision on Feller and my job. Of course it would be a terrible blow if the boy is declared a free agent."

At the Montreal minor league convention where baseball officials gathered this week Landis called in witnesses on this phase of the $100,000 battle for the 17-year-old [illegible] said the [illegible].

FARMERS HEAR DAIRY EXPERT

Cattle Feeding Methods Discussed at Second of Series of Meetings.

Prof C L Blackman of the animal husbandry department of Ohio State university who is speaking in a series of four dairy meetings here advised a group of Marion county farmers and dairymen last night of recent theories of feeding cattle for milk production It was the second meeting of the series arranged by County Agent S. L. Anderson in whose office it was held

He stressed the importance of using good quality hay in cutting down the cost of milk production and displayed several government samples He recommended that farmers cut their clover in full bloom instead of waiting until three-fourths of the bloom is dead In full bloom the plants contain a much higher percentage of protein the stocks are not as coarse and woody he said

Urges Use of Mixture

Prof Blackman urged alfalfa timothy mixtures in preference to straight alfalfa feed for the following reasons the cow as does a human being likes variety in her meals and is more likely to be contented on the mixed ration the stand in the field is easier to maintain when the two crops are seeded on the same ground the timothy helps prevent freezing out of the alfalfa during severe winters

He said the timothy can be seeded in the fall and the alfalfa the following spring Before planting clover farmers should have the acidity of their soil tested since clover will not grow in soil above certain acid content he said Testing is done free through the county agent's office by the state department of agriculture

Should a farmer's hay crop fail for any reason Sudan grass makes an excellent emergency crop for dairy feed but should not be used in regular rotation he said The grass can be planted June 15 and be ready for pasturing July 15 and will last all winter he said He did not advise use of Korean Lespedeza a pasture grass this far north as has been suggested recently in farm publications

Discusses Feed Grinding

Grinding of feeds for dairy cattle is important but grinding should be coarse he said If the feed is not ground at all or is ground too fine the cow will not get much nourishment from it Whole corn often puts a cow off her ration too he said The old theory that corn or cob meal is essential as roughage has been disproved he declared

The protein content of the grain mixture depends on the kind of hay or other roughage used If all timothy is used then the protein in the feed must be built up artificially on the other hand if clover and alfalfa both high in protein content are the main feed the protein needs very little or no artificial feed supplement

A high protein feed is essential for production of quality milk by a cow he said

The next meeting will be Dec 11 and the subject The Making of Rations
